Not illustrated. 1921 edition. Excerpt: ...Tien for sowing as well as for cultivation. It was claimed that this was the first time in history that the Chu Tien method was adopted for sowing, as all previous references only mention it for cultivation. 4. Emperor Hsien Chung or Shen Chung. REFERENCE; Kin Book, chapter on the Emperor. An edict was issued discontinuing the use of the Zen Kau (a water-wheel device for rolling, grinding and thrashing) and ordering that the water be used for irrigation. REFERENCE: Kin History, chapter on Kao Yu-Li. Reign Jen Yu, third year: The government moved the soldier families (families having adults who were soldiers) from Ho-Peh 3 to Honan. But the rentals from the official or government land (in Honan) were 1 The stripping of the fields was first practised by Yi Yuan, prime minister to Emperor Tang, first emperor of Yin D-y-nasty, 1766-1754 B. C., for the purpose of alleviating drought conditions. 2 If his land was near a river, so that plenty of water was attainable. North of Yellow River, Shansi, Chili. South of Yellow River, Honan. not sufficient to supply 1 these soldier families. So the emperor ordered the minister to send out officers to different districts in Honan, in order to call together those elders of the villages, and to receive opinions from them whether it would be better for the government to increase the rent on the official land or to take out some of the official land from the hands of the people and to give it to the soldier families to cultivate. When these officers came back from their mission, they all reported the opinion of the farming people as follows: In recent years, we farmers (tenants on the government land) have already suffered the heavy burden of rent and taxes. If the government...
